Choosing an Entity and Drafting Key Agreements

The formation of a business entity is the first step toward determining how the business will be managed and controlled, as well as the relationship between it and its owners and investors.

With our experience we can help you explore your options and choose an appropriate Arizona business entity to meet your goals, including

- Corporations (subdivided into C and S corporations)
- Limited liability companies (LLC)
- Limited liability partnerships (LLP)
- Professional corporations (such as Medical practices)
- Nonprofit entities
- General and limited partnerships

Of course, business formation is not just about choosing an entity and registering with the secretary of state. Many entities require the drafting of articles of incorporation, bylaws, operating agreements and other documents that can have a significant impact going forward.

In addition to these formation documents, we assist new businesses with the drafting of key business contracts, including employment agreements and franchise agreements.

Making Sure Joint Venturers Are Personally Protected

If you are getting involved in a joint venture, it is particularly important to take steps to protect your personal assets and decide how the business or investments will be managed. Our attorneys can counsel you on how best to pursue your personal goals through appropriate business entity selection and the drafting and negotiation of agreements between co-owners or investors, such as buy-sell or shareholder agreements.
